Phyllis,
You really have a swell personality. I wish you luck this summer and throughout the rest of your college days - yet I'm sure you'll succeed
without any luck.

Tenda Wittman

Phyllis)
It's really been nice, having you as a roommate! Something
I wonder about is how you put up with me. I hope soon I will find the one and I wish you every happiness in life. May God's presence always be with you now
Love you
Patty J. Rippee

P.S. Have a nice summer;
hope to see you
next year.

A college day begins

Seven a.m. The day starts in the Men's Residence Hall with a crucial physics test review—or in Martin Hall over a cup of instant coffee and a philosophy paper. Or in a discussion at breakfast in Olt Student Center. Its setting is a world of accelerating pace. And the range of its importance and its potential may come in a contemplative walk to the day's first class...

And comes alive

Eight a.m. Every college classroom is an experimental laboratory. A place of testing and retesting. Of agreeing and disagreeing. Of ideas. A college classroom is a place of continuous dialogue. A computing center is challenged and mastered. A rigorous experiment conducted. Two artists, teacher and student, explore a violin lesson. It is not an easy place to be. Discipline is learned ... Wisdom gained.

Myths are shattered

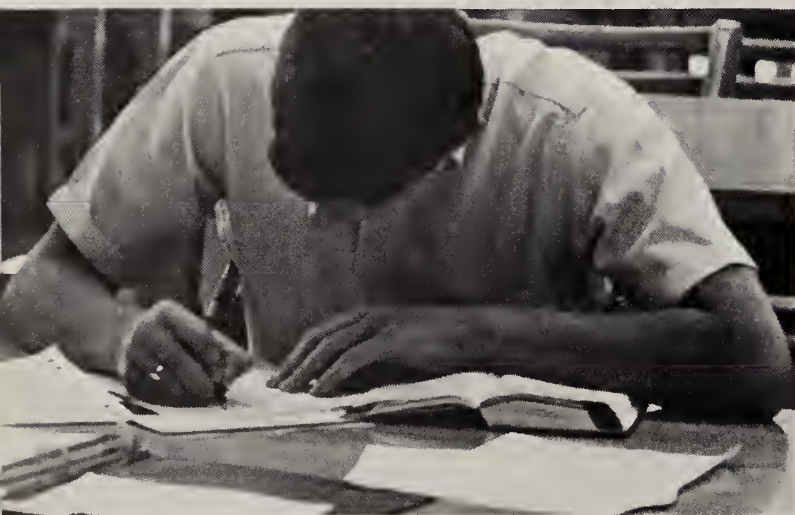

Eleven a.m. A break for lunch and discussion over a thorny issue in an economics lecture. Research in Wilson Library for advanced Spanish classes. Twice-weekly chapel and visiting lecturers provide impetus to campus discussion. And always, the communion of faculty and student ideas. Somewhere, dependent on individual values, talents, goals, patterns take shape in diversity . . .

Values are reaffirmed

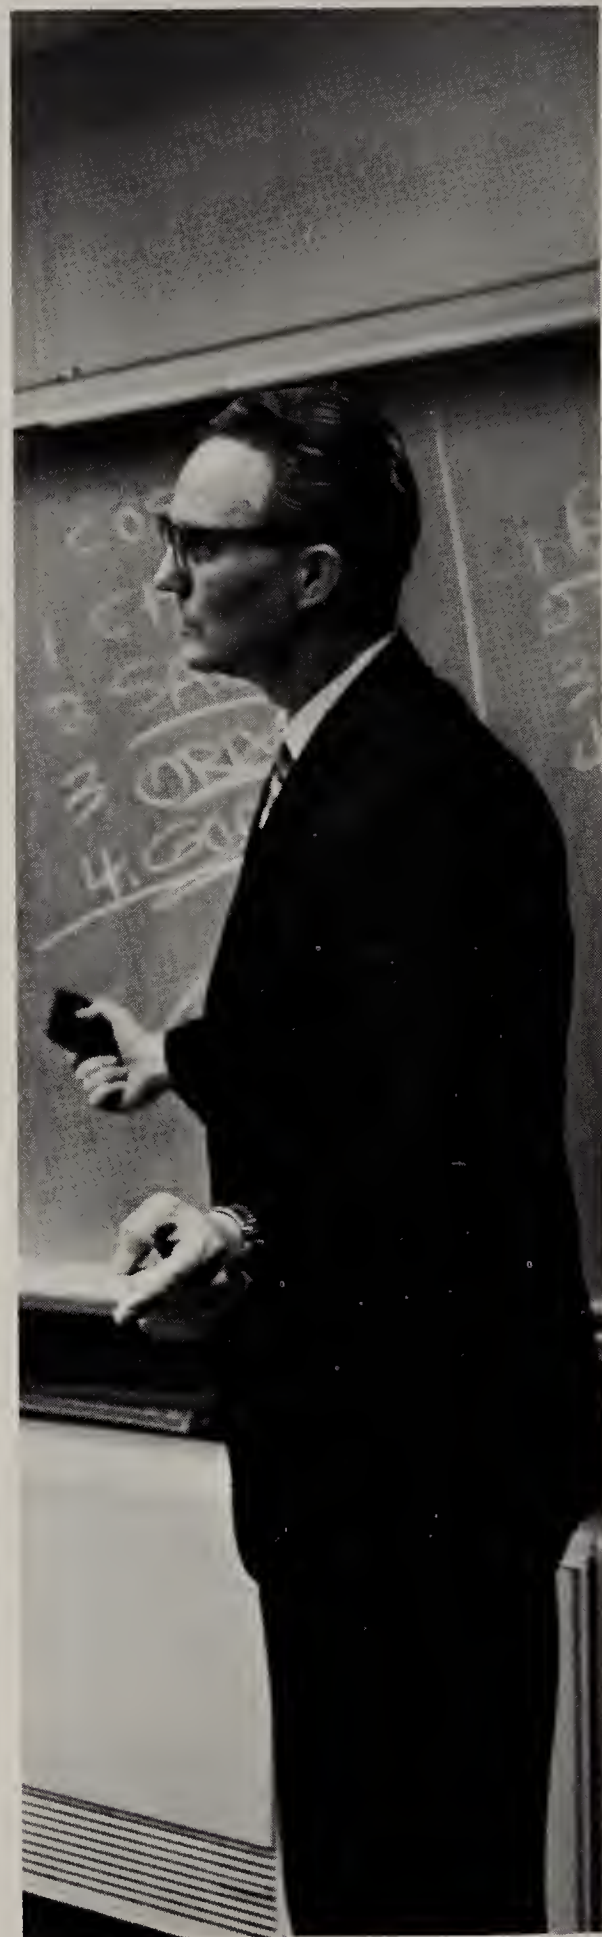

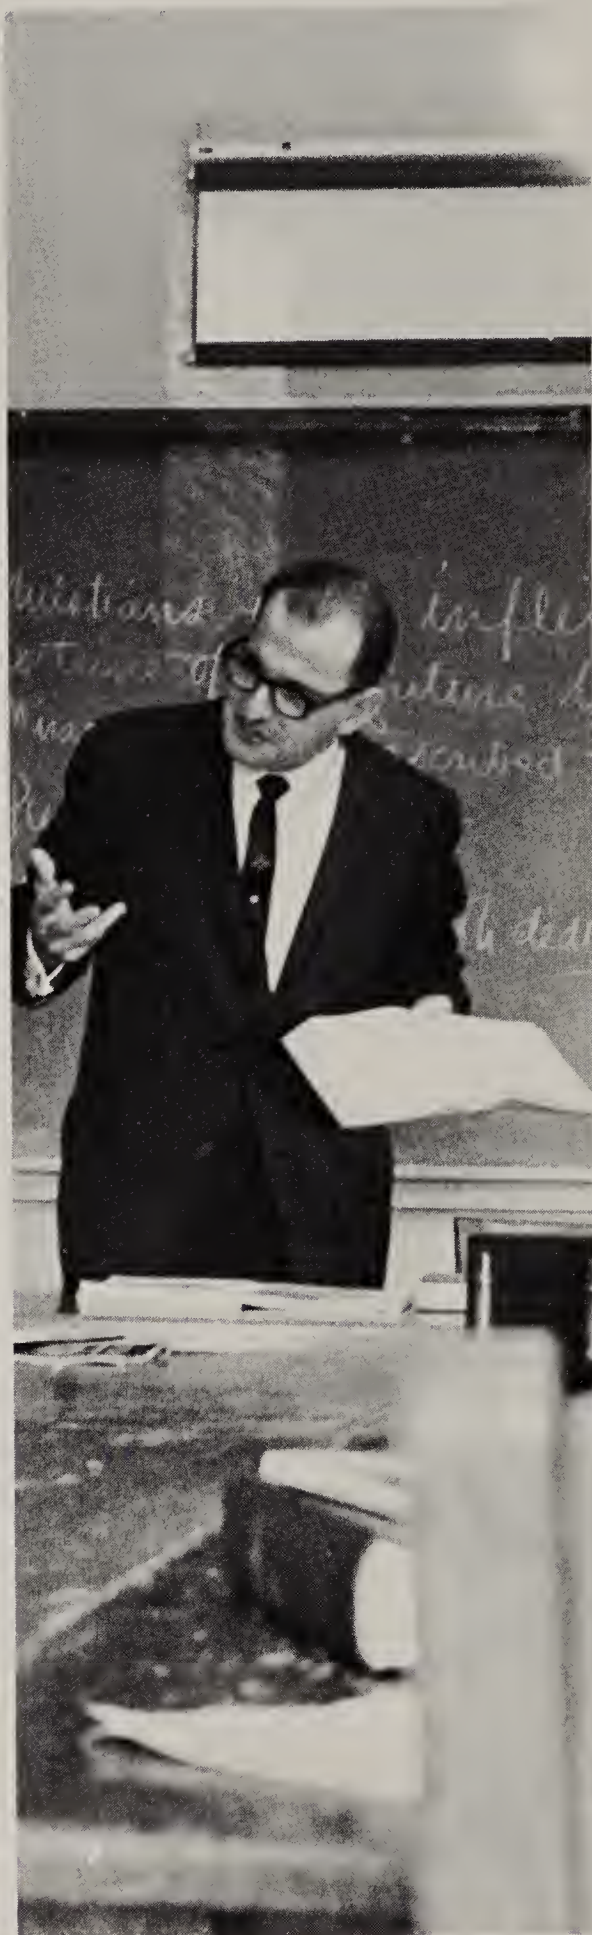

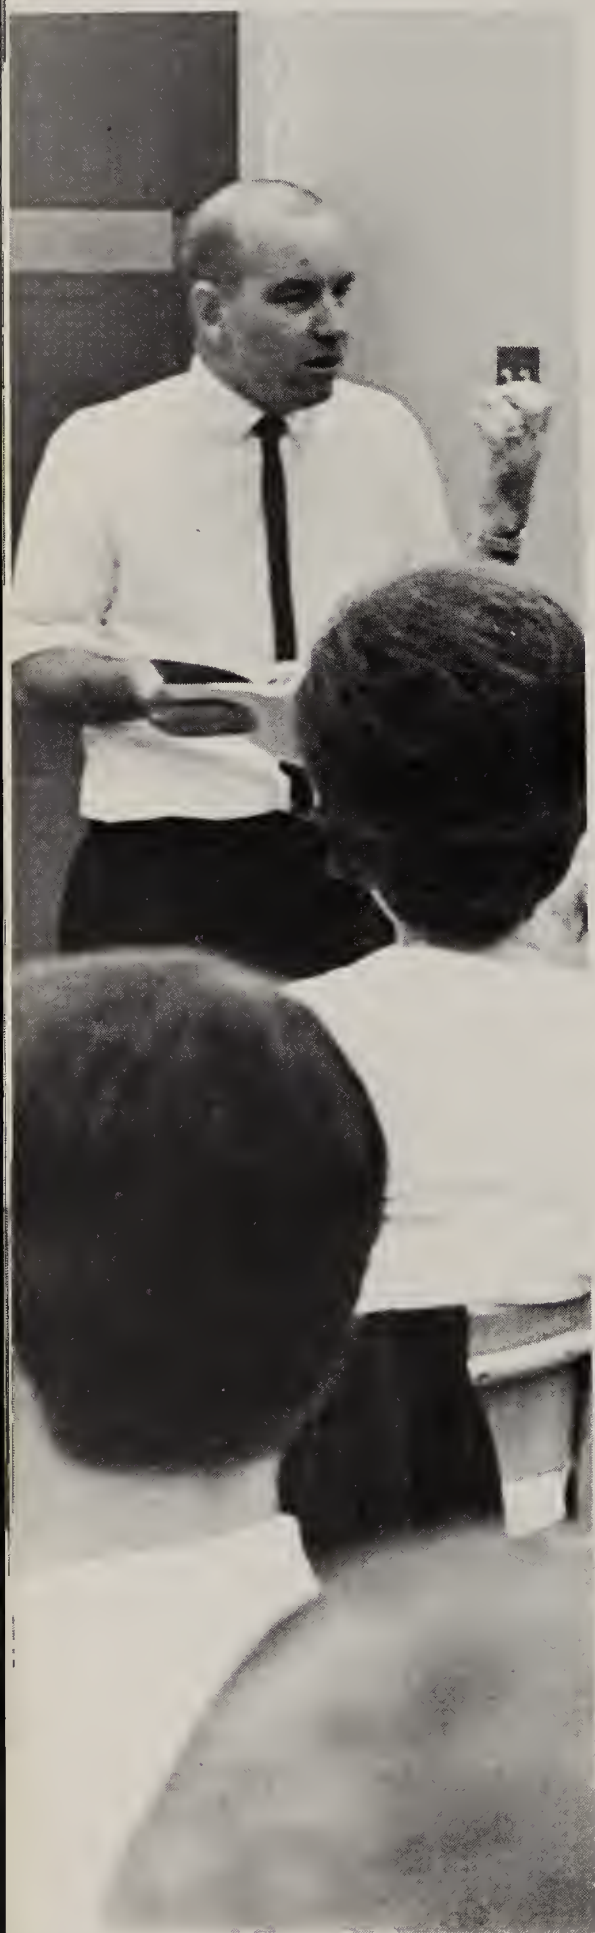

Two p.m. College brings with it a whole new set of responsibilities. It is preparation for the student's next fifty years. It is hard work. Often Wilson Library becomes the center of intensive independent research in many different fields. It is the center, too, for more lighthearted discussion on an autumn-colored day . . .

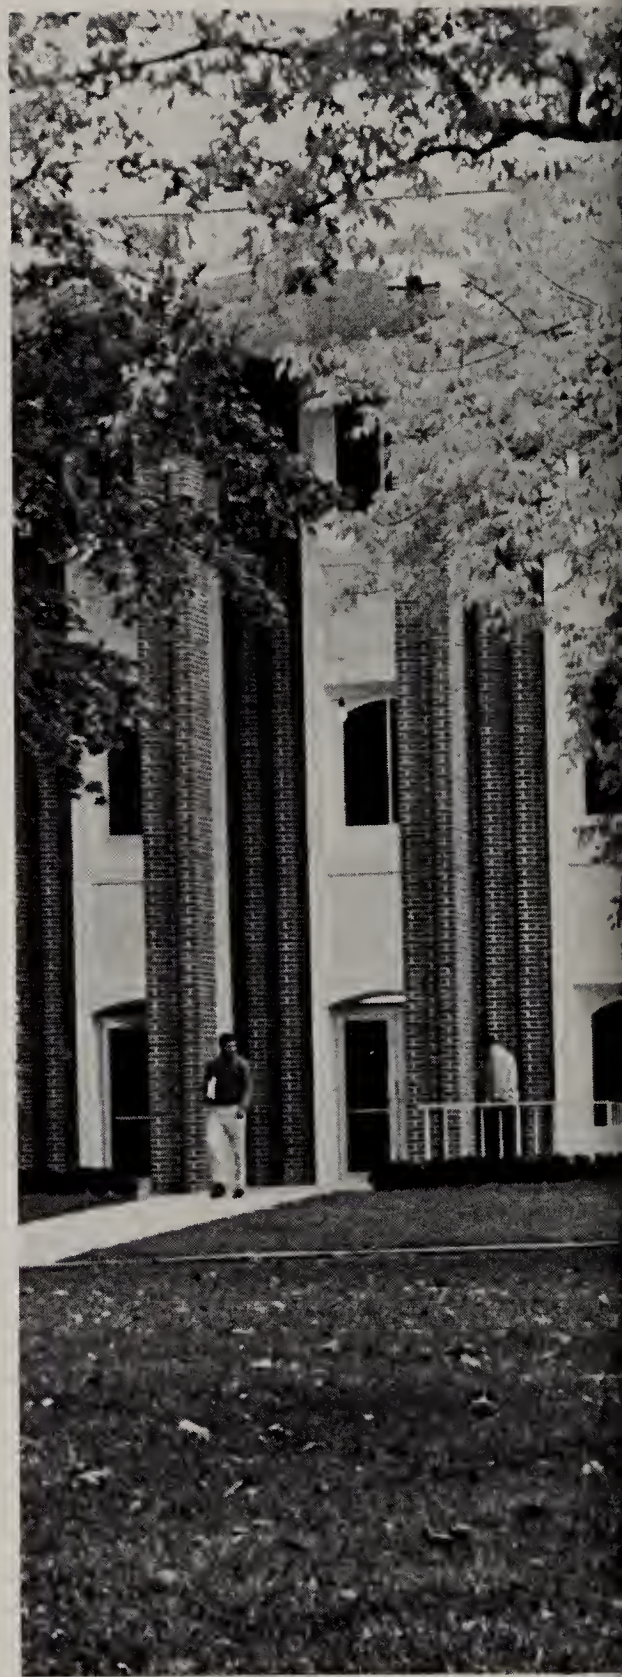

The pace quickens

Four p.m. There is excitement in these classrooms. And there is understanding. These are teachers of reason, wisdom, humor, and generosity. In an English workshop, a history seminar, a Bible class, this becomes apparent. The day has been full. Time to reflect, make plans for a Christianity-in-Action weekend story hour, and a debate tour on a reflective walk to Morrison Hall . . .

The campus quiets

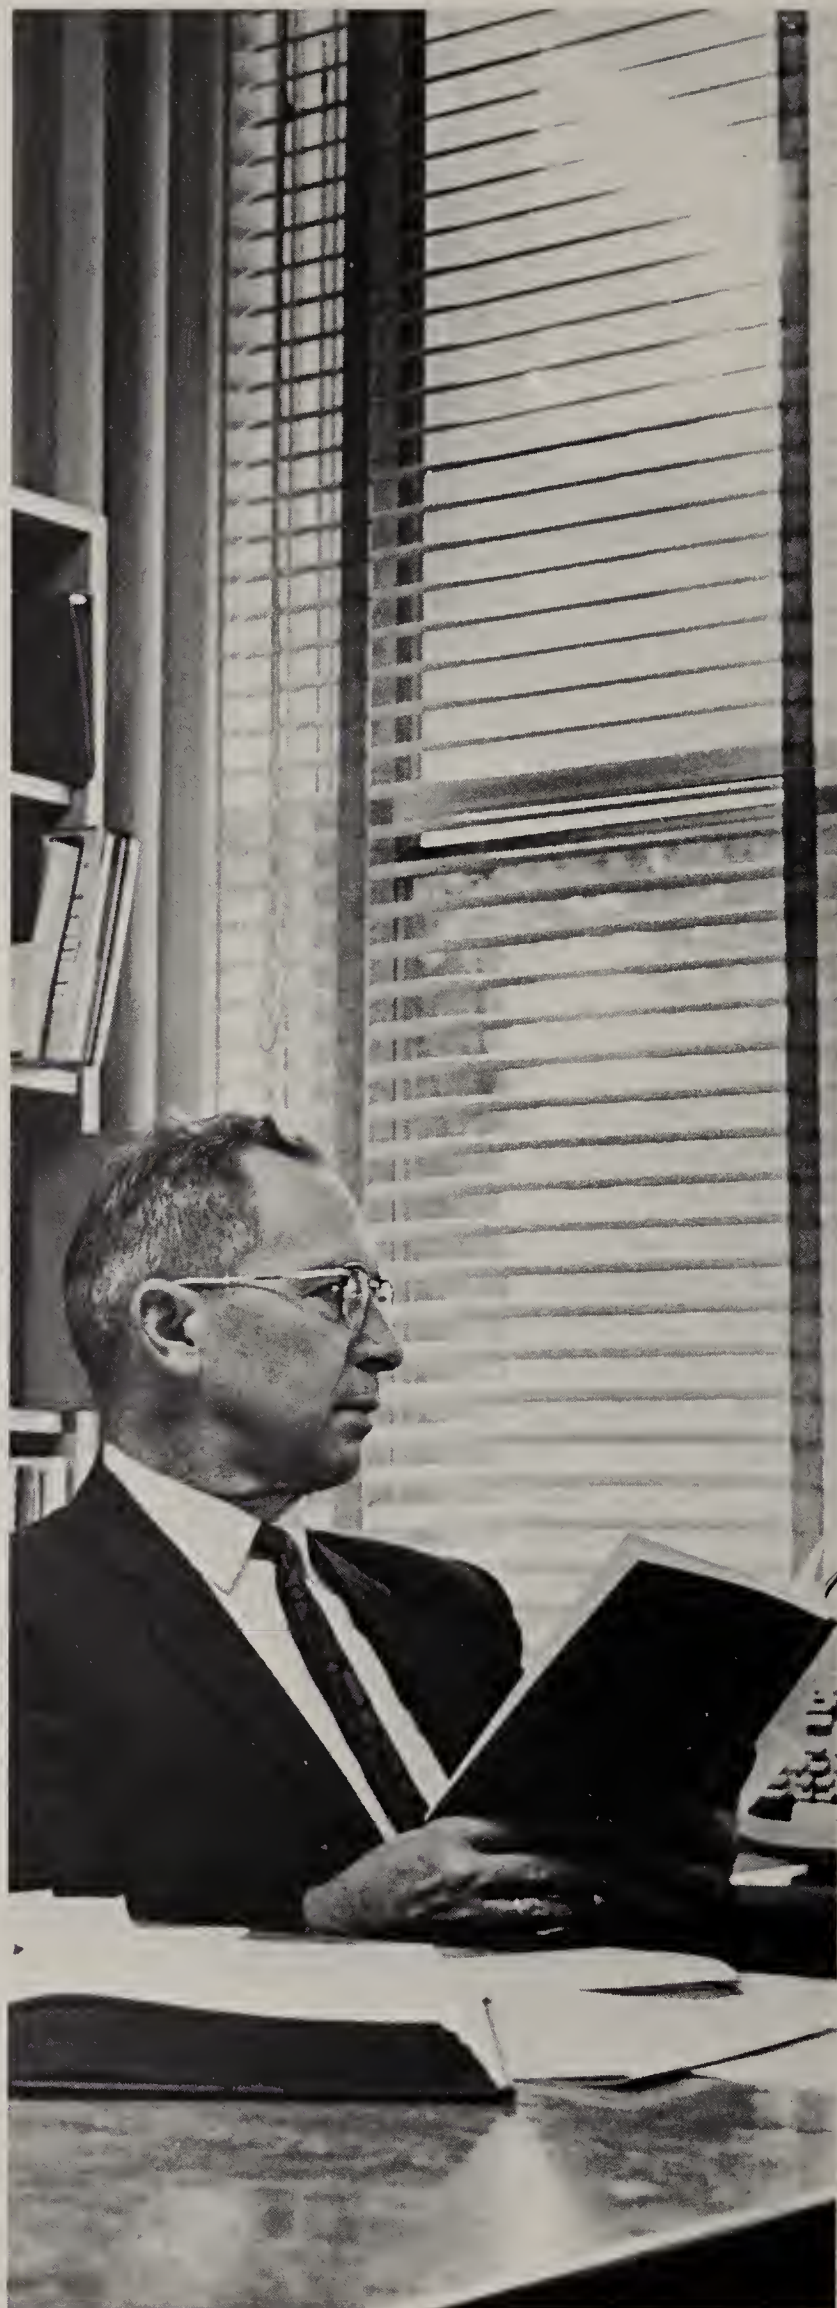

Six p.m. Momentarily, the campus quiets . . . The evening is not yet underway . . . a rethinking of today's lecture . . . a rush to evening classes – and then a calm . . . a break to contemplate the view of Lewis gym from Martin Hall . . . a time to stop and check class notes in the Science Building . . .

The day ends

Ten p.m. Anderson College is many things. It is an early evening walk to meet a date . . . a serious conference with an advisor . . . It is research for a Freshman class . . . It is Religious Emphasis Week and a fireside chat in Olt Center with a Tri-S volunteer discussing Student Summer Service . . . It is contemplation, discovery, communion. It is tradition and innovation. Most of all it is people . . .

Anderson College is people

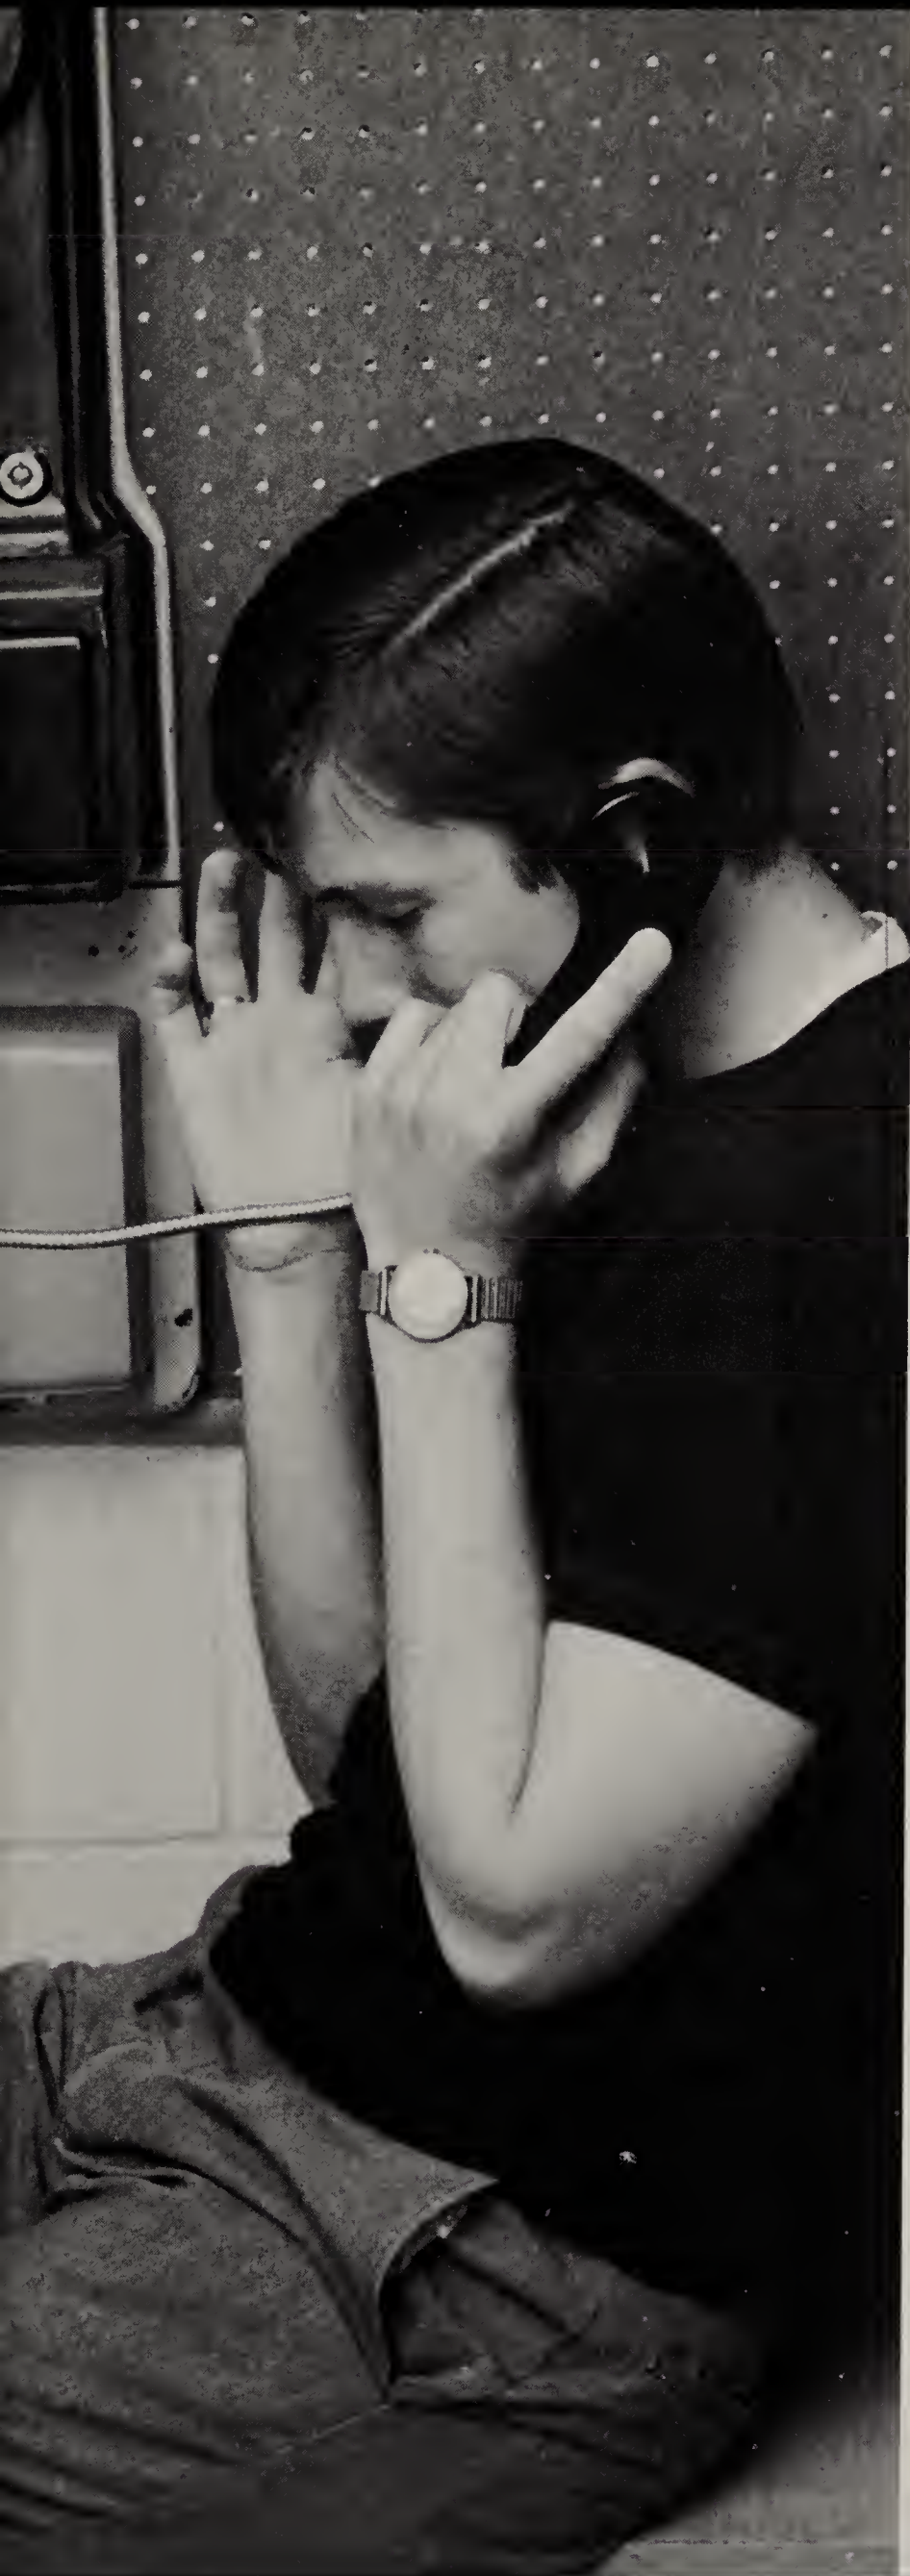

Without us there would be no Anderson College. Without our enthusiasm, there is no school spirit. Without our earnest study, the library is useless. Without us, buildings are empty, athletic teams do not compete, professors cannot pass on their wisdom and knowledge. If we have matured socially and in our religious life, increased our academic ability, gained new insights, then Anderson College has been successful in 1965-66.

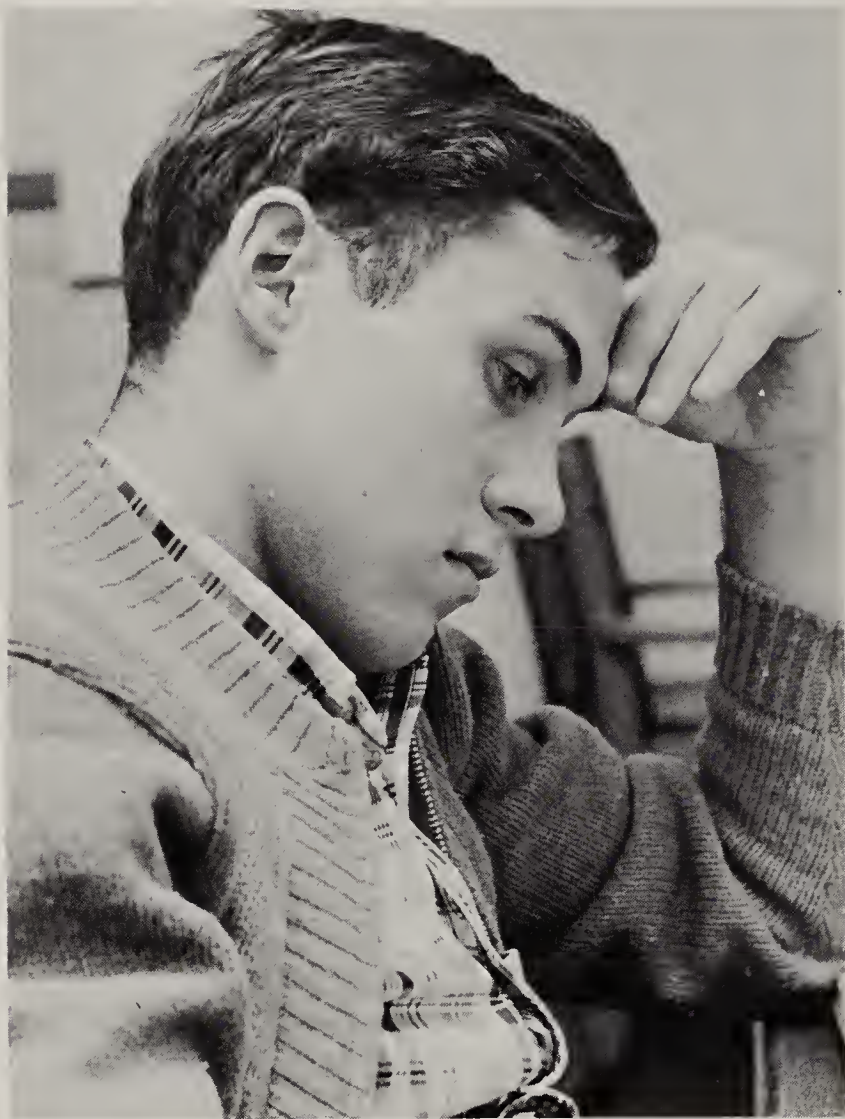

Together and alone

We spent most of this college year outside the classroom, inventing unique ways of wasting time and relieving tensions, struggling with simple tasks such as washing, working long hours to make the Homecoming parade a success. The thousand and one things we have done this year will all be part of our memories of A. C.

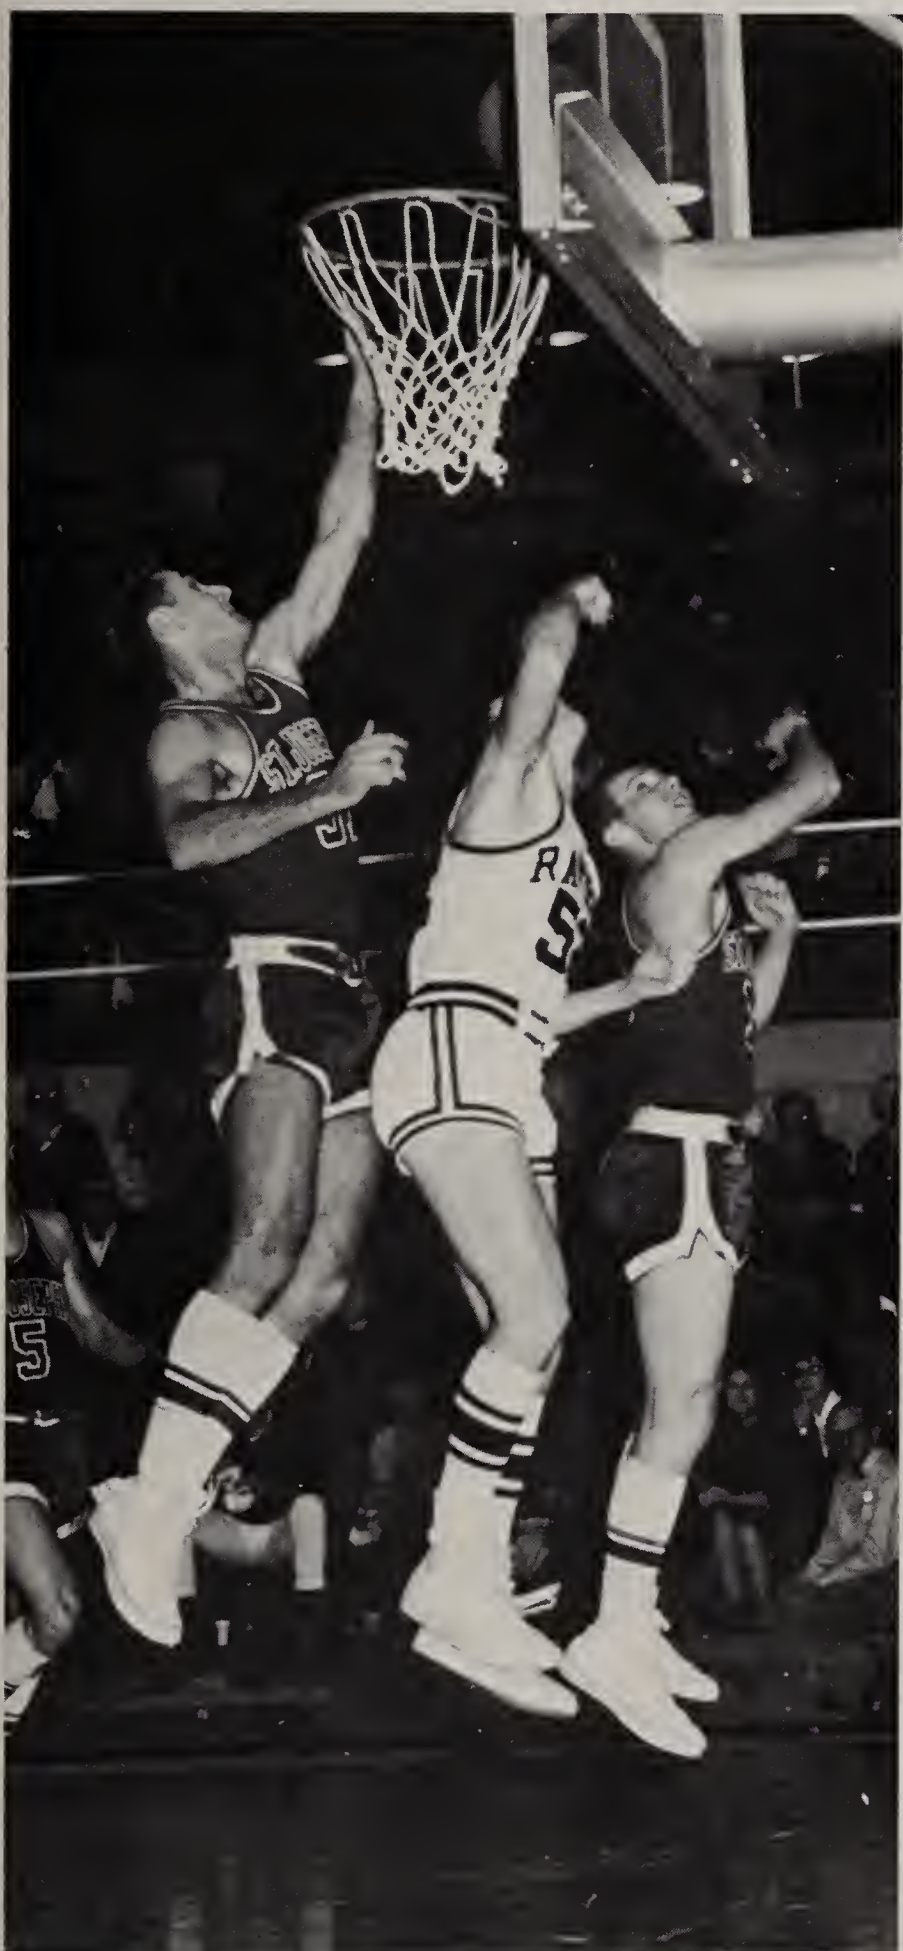

Learning and sharing

At times we have craved noise and excitement. Winning the football championship and adding to the enthusiasm of a home basketball crowd have been highlights of this year at Anderson. At other times we have merely sat sharing thoughts with our closest friend or evaluating the ideas in our own mind.

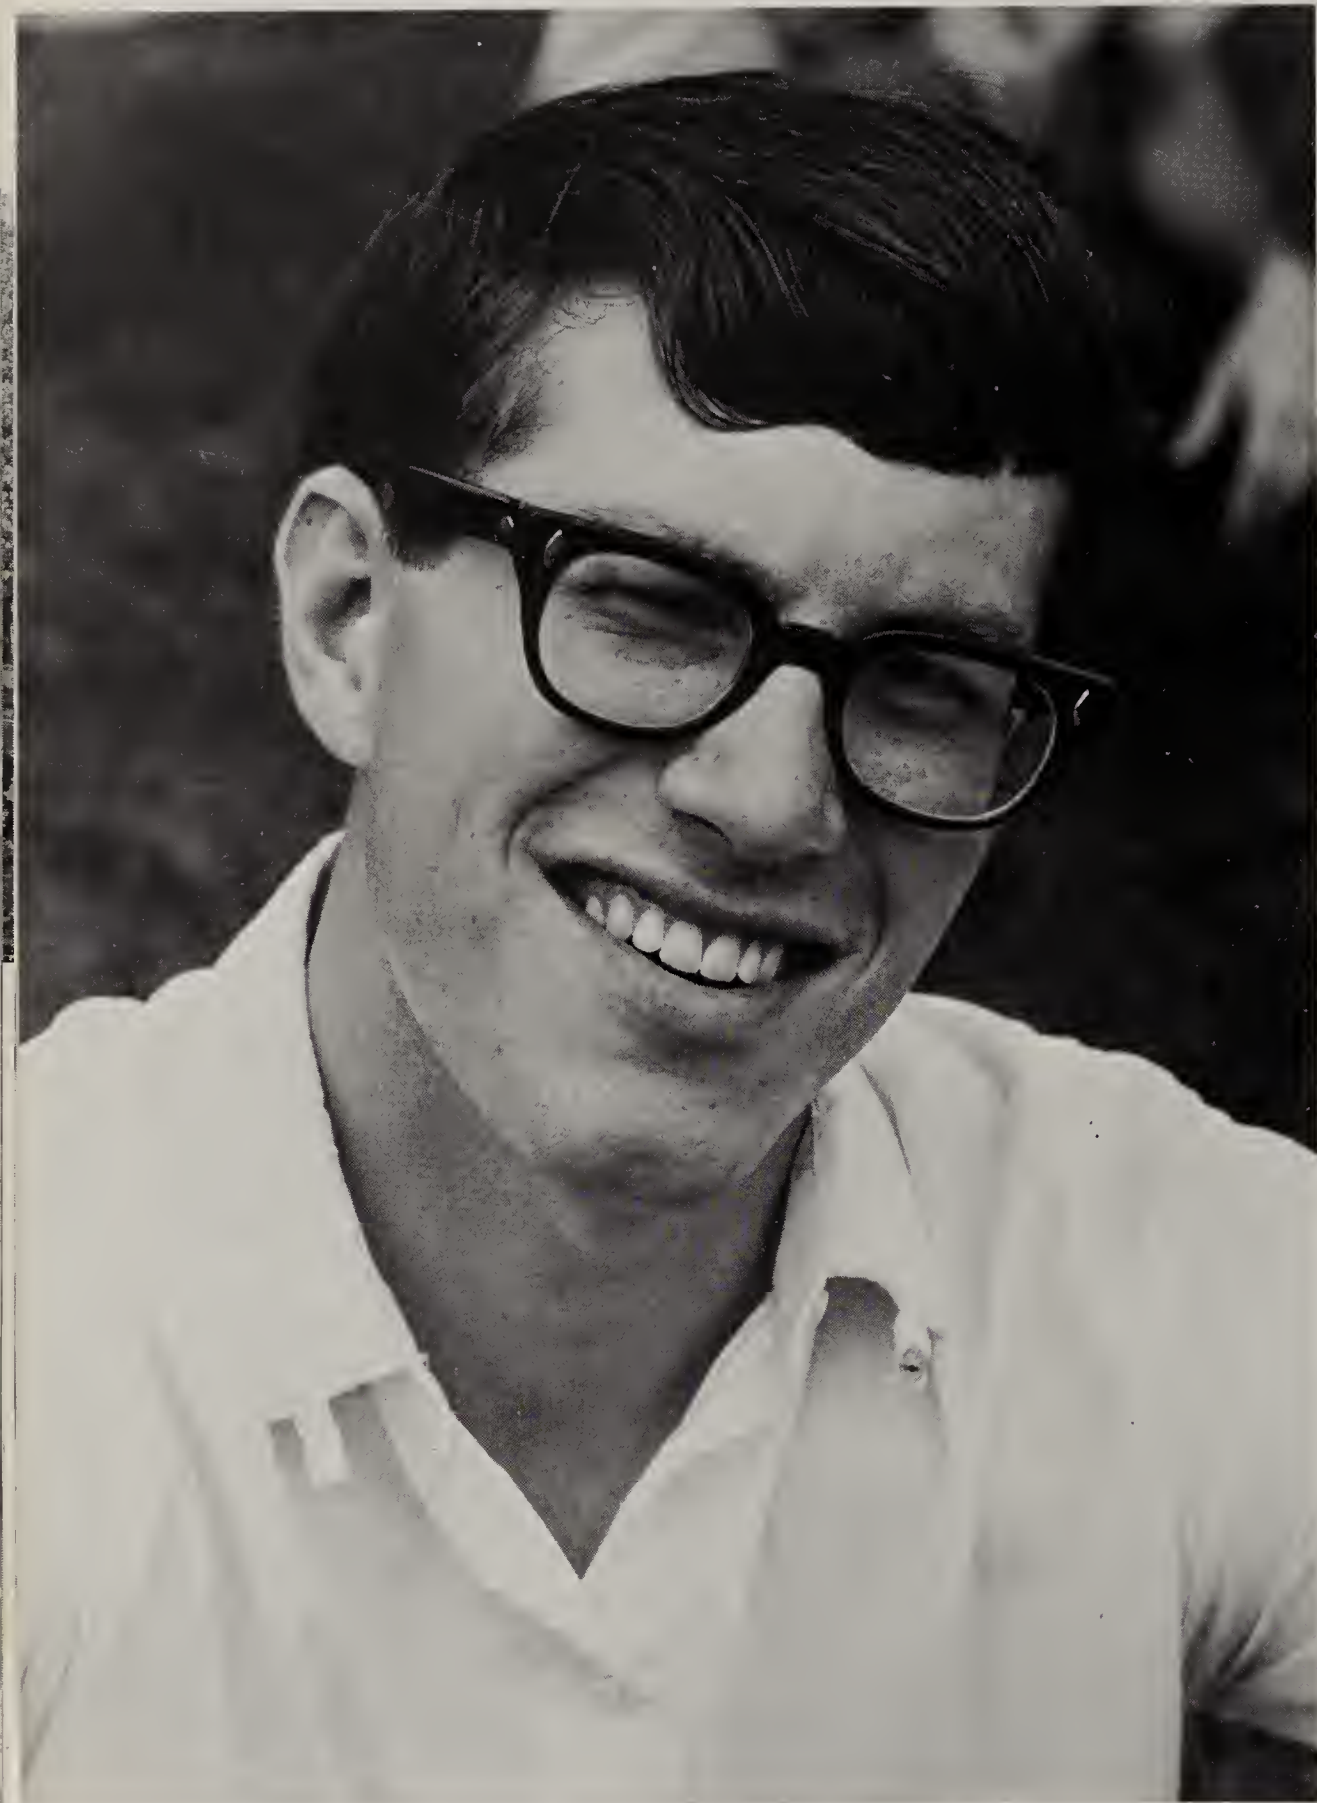

Reflecting and remembering

Our memories of this year are of people, events large and small, plays, ballgames, conversations. Yet will we ever forget the walk between the School of Theology and the Science Building in Spring, the gloominess of Old Main at 7 A. M., how funny the cafeteria looked with all its chair legs in the air, the warm glow the campus possessed illuminated for Homecoming? After all the present college community has gone to various parts of the country, our memories will be tied to these familiar spots.

Anderson College 1965-66

Buildings and events are in the background of our memories. But what fills in the forefront in our mind? Most clearly we will remember the personality that lived in the residence hall, the smile of the actor on stage, the cheerleader's disappointed look, the warmth the President always conveyed to us in Chapel. We could forget every spot on campus, every event, and still remember the essence of our experience as a student this year. Anderson College is people.

Features

We recognize and admire the achievements of our fellow students. Their abilities in various academic fields, music, journalism, and personal relations and leadership have enriched our college life. We, in turn, have contributed to making their lives more meaningful; therefore, we all feel a sense of accomplishment at the success of our fellow students. As we give mutually to each other of ourselves, we become a Christian college.

Amici

The Amici Club attempts to keep in mind the purpose of social clubs on the campus, namely to provide members with social activities and opportunities for service in the community and on the campus. Consequently, the social theme rather than club business dominated most of the meetings. Sessions were held on improving the etiquette of the club members, Grant Hooker's experiences in Europe and other topics of common interest.

Amici activities included at a winter formal at a northern Michigan lodge, a barbecue, group trips to Indianapolis and several service projects.

The theme for Amici's Homecoming float was "His Master's Voice". The float captured second place.

Since our Homecoming opponents were the Indiana Central Greyhounds, Booster chose for its winning float the theme, "Leave the Driving to Us."

Booster

Starting the year's activities on an enthusiastic note, the "humble" Boosters placed first in Homecoming float competition. The club then directed most of its energy to the production of the musical, "Brigadoon," in cooperation with the Camarada Club. The Broadway hit was presented by the two clubs March 11 and 12 at the Park Place School.

The Booster Club celebrated its thirtieth anniversary year in 1966. Boosters are proud of the contributions their club has made to the College in the past years. For example, the Alma Mater was written as a club project in 1939. Current Boosters strive to be a part of this tradition, taking active part in many campus activities.

Sachem

Sachem Club members have attempted to benefit Anderson College as a whole as well as demonstrate the workable nature of a social club through close association among themselves and with other club members. Specifically, club activities include: a traditional spring formal, the construction of "It's in the Bag", a Homecoming float which was awarded Honorable Mention, a Christmas party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Helvey, a trip to Fort Wayne to see a Hockey game and several interesting club meetings, including special speakers and films on sporting events.

Sachems work hard between coke breaks.

Triad

First Row: Ted Corns, Rich Honeycutt, Bob Edson and Larry Metz. Second Row: Jim Wright, Tony Wilson, Larry McFarling, Thomas V. LeClear and Gary Lindsey.

Rae Smith and Eddie Hutcheson do "Information" for annual Triad Amateur Hour.

Triad is built on a threefold purpose — to fulfill the social, academic and religious needs of its members.

Growing out of the social purpose, the club sponsored the annual Triad Amateur Hour and an all-school entertainment tour. In an effort to increase social concern on campus, Triads had projects to raise money for Tri-S and a project for children. Triad encouraged academic pursuits by awarding a scholarship to a worthy student and an honorary plaque to the outstanding Triad scholar.

Pepsters contributed to the Homecoming spectacular this year by very cleverly building a float which fell apart during the parade. With a terrific comeback, Pep successfully presented their annual Christmas Capers for the entertainment of the school at large. Throughout the year, the club held service projects and were the official campus hostesses for Homecoming weekend, the Danish Gymnastic Team and our AC football champions. In place of a formal, Pep had a camp-out during a spring weekend.

Since its organization in 1935, Arete Pep has had as its purpose to show excellence in Christian personality, education and progress.

Camarada

As the leaves began to turn and harvest approached, Camarada entertained their pledges at Camp Tanglewood. Eighteen new members were chosen to strengthen the chain of fellowship, boosting membership to forty. Later in the semester, members invited dates to a Christmas party at Weiler's Party Room, which was transformed into a "Winter Wonderland." After Christmas, the club began diligent work on "Brigadoon", the Camarada-Booster all-school, production dates March 11 and 12. Money-making projects included corn pickin', bake sale, mum sale at Homecoming and a profitable visit to a local funeral home. In the spring the club's fancy turned to thoughts of their formal.

Taeda

Taeda began the year planning for their "Grand Ole Opry" and building their Homecoming float, which placed third in the competition. As a service project, the girls send Christmas boxes to servicemen in Viet Nam and France. Several club meetings were held with leaders in major fields.

These and other activities were designed to help each club member develop socially and intellectually and become a better world citizen.

Merrill Clum, Warren Hastings, Terry Thole and Mike Bass make up the mike relay team that set a new school record.

Larry Hooker holds the record in the triple jump.

Relay team set school records

Si Oliver finishes first for AC in the 220 yard dash.

Tom Hill, Jim Hall, Si Oliver and Rich Sharp set a new school record in the 880 relay.

Bob Weigle was named MVP while Terry Stevens and Denny Lehnus were chosen Honorary Co-Captains.

Bob Young rips out a single as Max Hopple looks on from the batter's box.

'65 Ravens in NAIA Tourney

Kneeling: Rich Christenson, Terry Tierney, Rick Perry, Mike Fox, Richie Davis, Max Hopple, Terry Stevens, Boyce Wood and Bob Young. Standing: Dan VonBargen, Darryl Lehnus, Bob Weigle, Denny Lehnus, Dave Hancock, Denny Gloff, Carl Poikonen, Jerry Stevens and Coach Erskine.

"Coach" Smith, backed up by Denny Gloff, takes a turn at bat.

Charlie Blackwelder takes a cut as an unidentified Raven heads for home.

Coach Carl Erskine was named NAIA District 21 and Hoosier Conference "Coach of the Year" following his successful season.

The 1965 Raven diamondmen brought new athletic fame to Anderson College. Winning the Hoosier Conference crown, the Ravens represented Indiana in the Area Six National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics playoff. Losing their opener to Spring Arbor (Mich.), 4-2, the AC nine came back with wins over Ashland (Ohio), 6-3, Lewis (Wis.), 6-3 and Spring Arbor, 11-1, breaking a five year Area Six championship domination by Lewis.

Having earned the right to go to the NAIA National Playoff in St. Joseph, Mo., the Ravens set out to face the toughest slate of teams ever to compete in that tourney. Western Washington State blanked the Orange and Black diamond crew, 3-0, and Whitewater (Wis.) eliminated the Ravens by a narrow 3-2 margin.

Anderson pitchers finished the season ranked fourth in the nation and the AC nine was listed tenth in batting with a .306 team average. Posting a 9-1 HCC mark, and 20-5 overall, the Orange and Black baseball team turned in the best season on record in this sport in its history at Anderson College.

Bob Weigle was chosen First Team All-American as an outfielder while Terry Stevens and Denny Lehnus made Honorable Mention All-American, Stevens as an infielder and Lehnus as a pitcher.

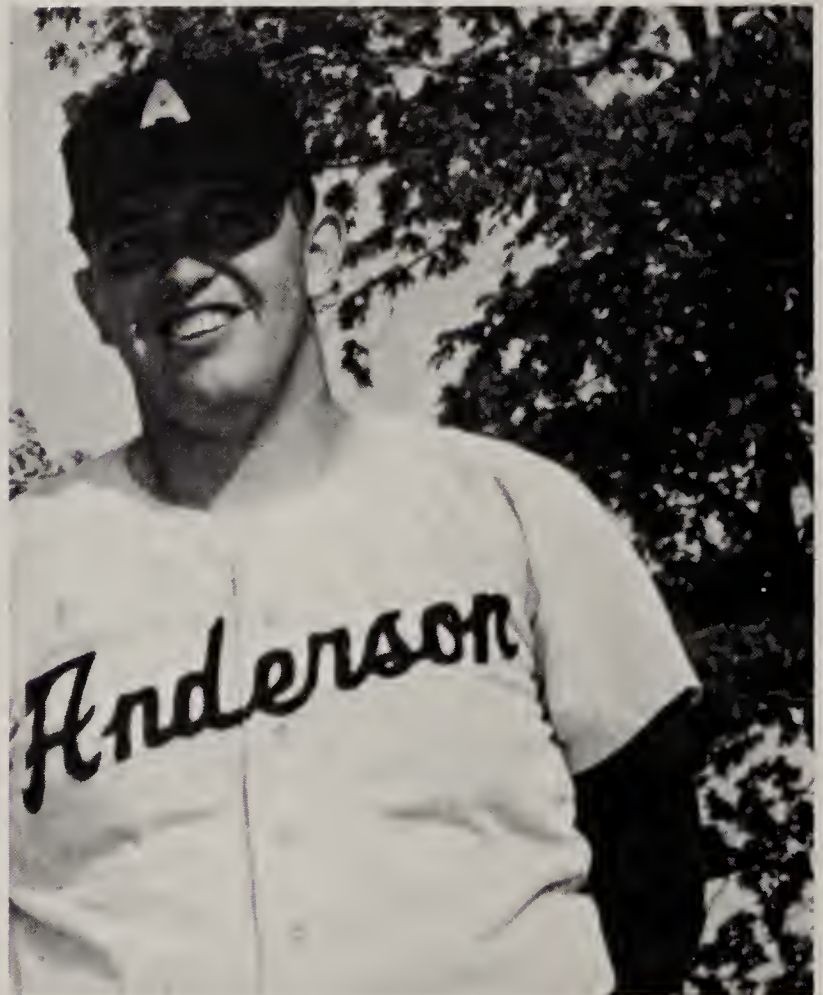

NAIA picks three

Bob Weigle, First Team All-American — outfielder.

Terry Stevens, Honorable Mention — infielder.

Denny Lehnus, Honorable Mention — pitcher.

We have come from every part of the world. We have filled every type of capacity in the college community. We have had various goals, standards, habits, backgrounds, likes and dislikes. We shared this year together, shared fun and sadness, confusion and tranquility, success and defeat. In 1965-66, we were Anderson College.

President

The Christian faith urges college students today to use their education to help create a better world. The ideal of stewardship runs very deep in the tradition of Anderson College, and I have seen our graduates serving God and their fellow man in genuinely significant ways all around the world. Doors into purposeful and creative work are wide open for the student who is willing to identify his life with a great Cause and stay with it. There is ample evidence on every hand that such lives do make a difference.

Dr. Robert H. Reardon

Dean

A college, contrary to its popular image with buildings and equipment, consists primarily of people who are committed to a common purpose and calling. It is primarily a mode of association. It depends upon a sense of vital unity which exists through and above the great diversity of interests of its members. For Anderson College this is not only an aspirational goal—it is an attitude which permeates the relationships of students, teachers, staff, and makes this in fact a college community.

Good. (And congratulations. If you substituted the right letters for their corresponding numbers, you've just solved another one.) That's the way curiosity works. If you have it, you just can't leave a problem alone until it's solved.

We know. Lots of us are the same way. Like you, we're curious about things. We ask questions. And we hunt for answers. Maybe that's why we're in a problem-solving business.

You might enjoy some of the things we're doing at our new Engineering and Research facility in Anderson. If we want to see what something really looks like, we pop it under our electron microscope and magnify it up to 200,000 diameters. (For example, we can magnify the diameter of a human hair to a width of 50 feet.) If we want to analyze materials for their metallic elements, we use our spectrograph. It's accurate down to a few parts per million. And these are only two of the many instruments we use to find answers to our questions.

Scientists, engineers, technicians . . . we all work together. And when we're done, we've got an electronic ignition system for cars. Or a control device for missiles. Or a new kind of generator. Then on to the next problem.

Sound like something to look into? It is. If you are doing well in your college science and mathematics courses, maybe you'd enjoy a career in research. Of course, it's no snap getting there. You've got lots of study and hard work ahead of you. But after college, if you still like to solve problems, stop by. We'll save a couple for you.

Acknowledgements

People, being people, unfortunately are not equipped with the ability to recall perfectly faces and events they have known and experienced in the past. Since we have known many people worth remembering and shared in events worth recalling, this past year, the "Echoes" staff has attempted to record permanently as many of these as possible. Of course, every happening worth remembering cannot be put into a small book. We hope that seeing a face of a forgotten campus friend will bring back to your mind a whole set of memories of events and emotions, important and insignificant.

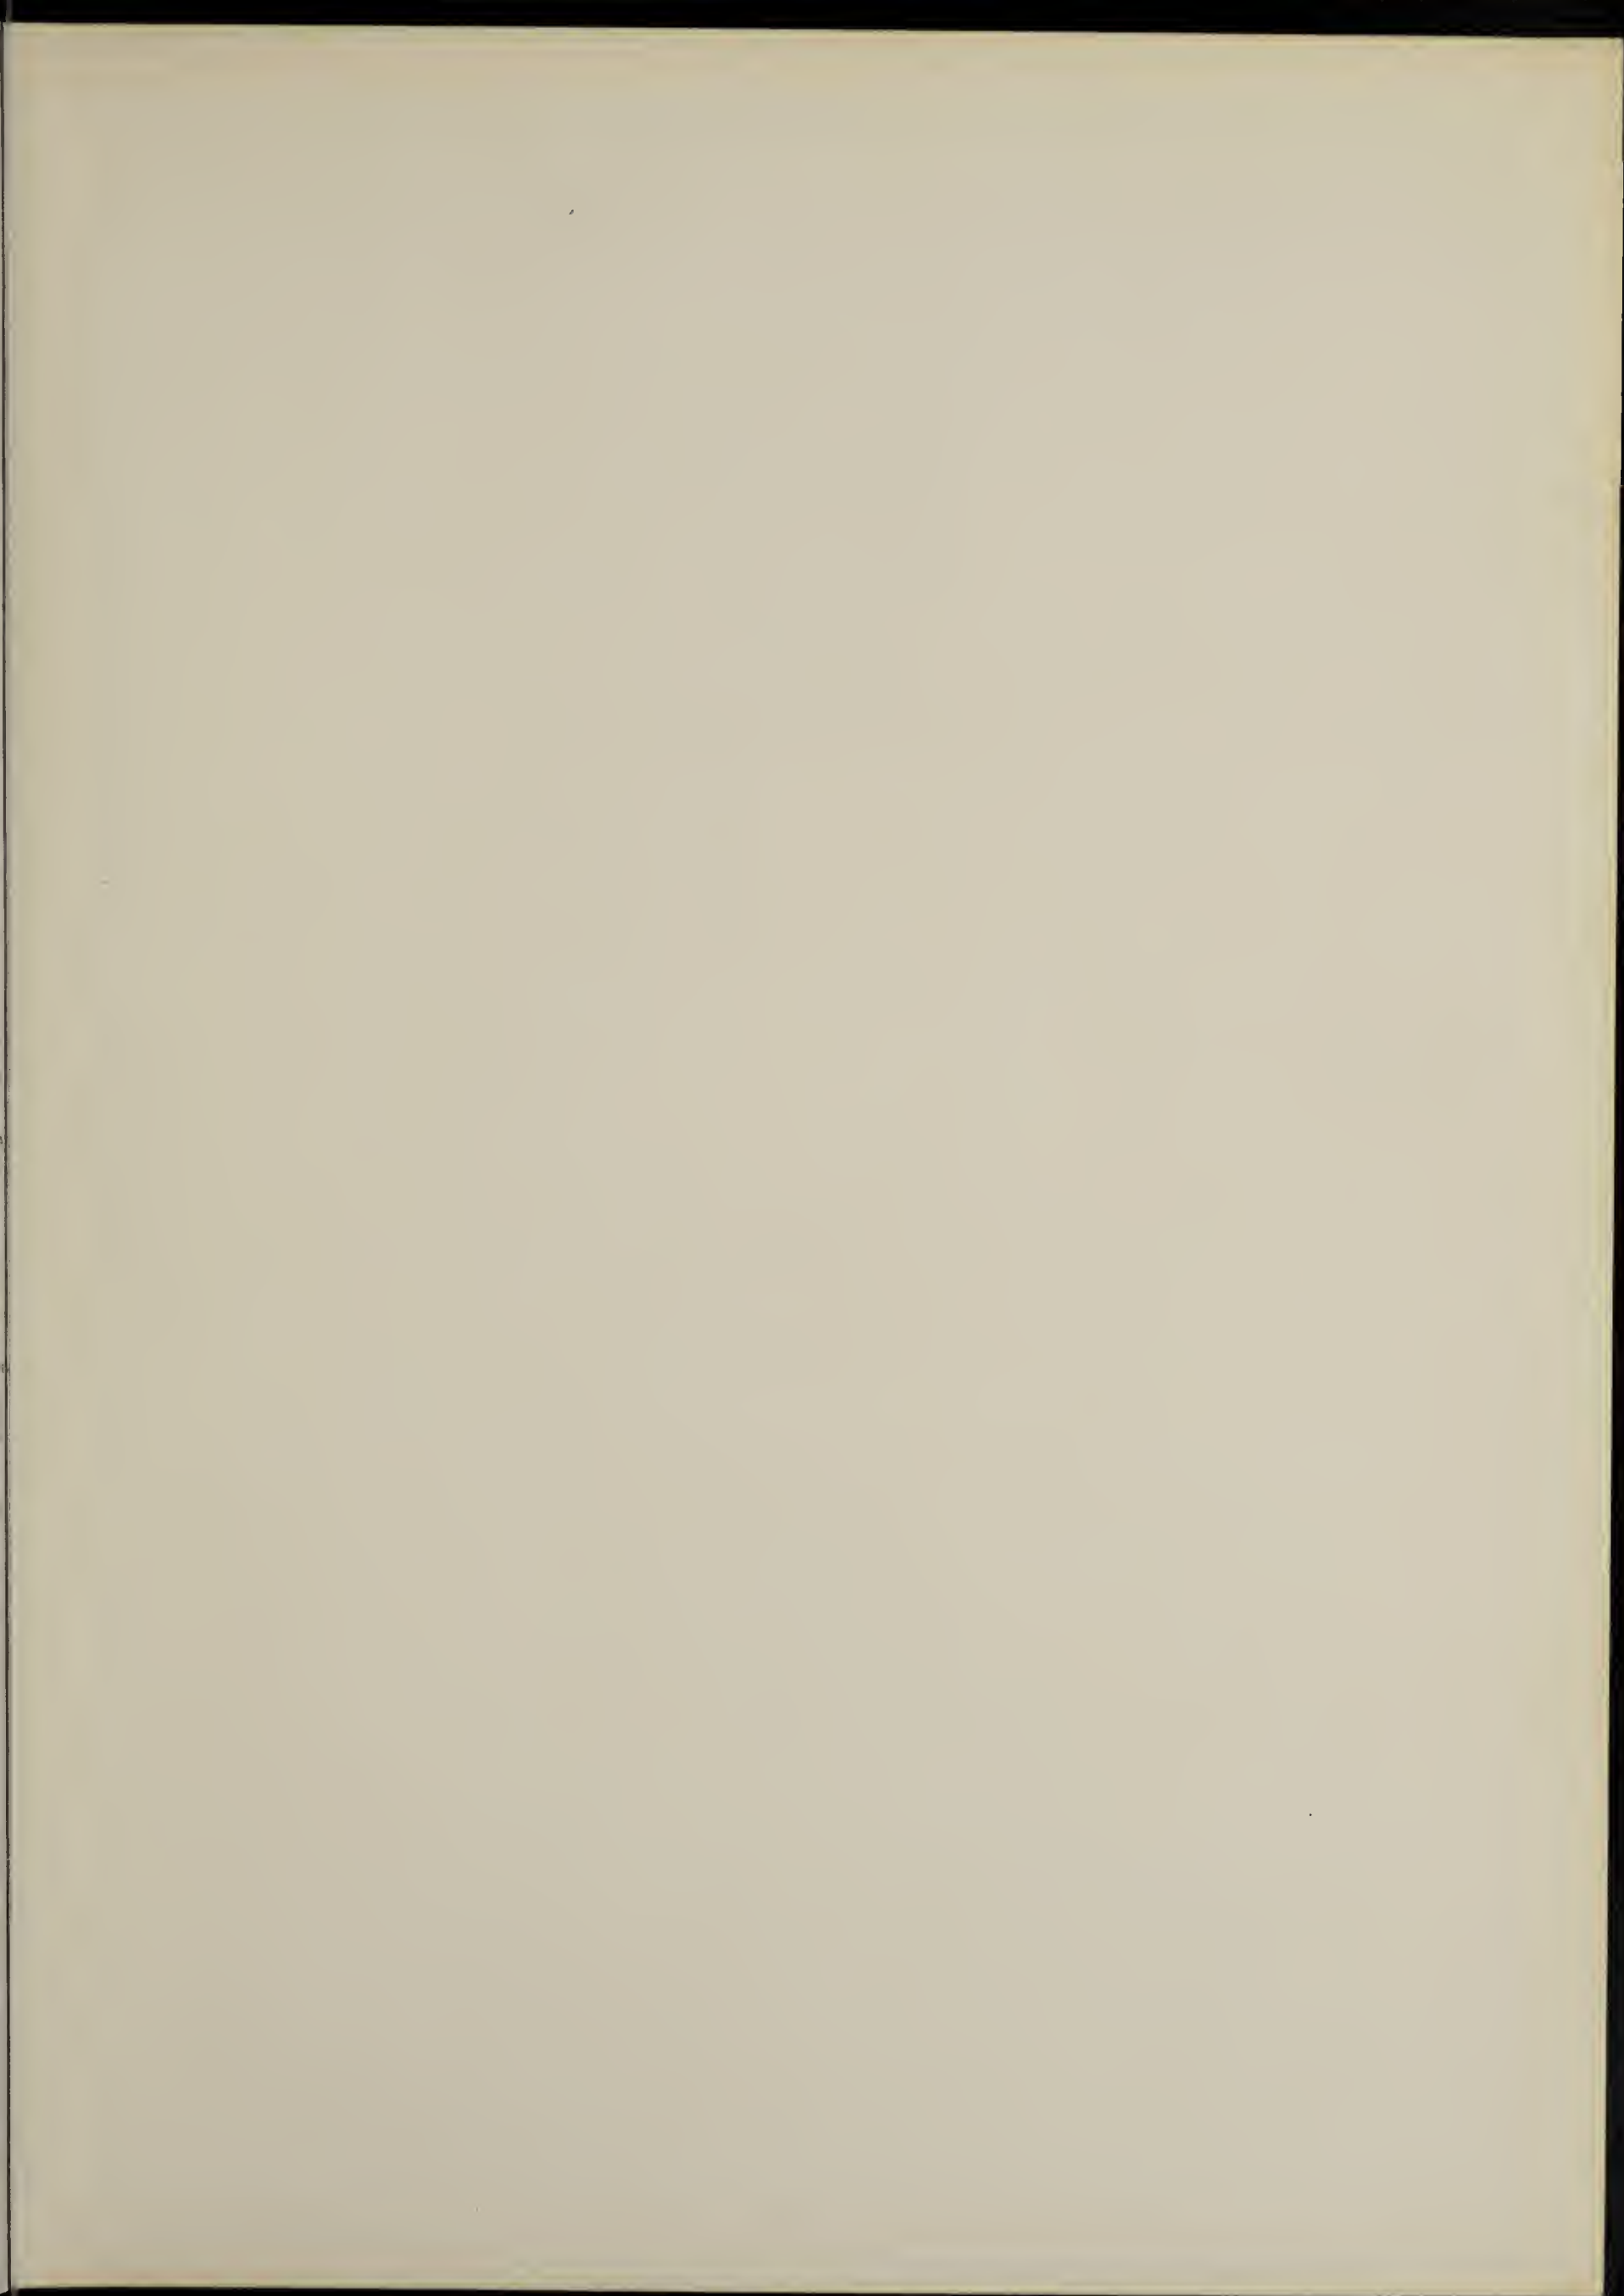

This year has been exciting. It has changed us. We have lived so intensely, thought many thoughts, shared many experiences with so many people. We do not want to forget this year, especially our friends who have made it meaningful. This edition of the "Echoes" is to keep us from forgetting.

A great amount of cooperation is necessary to produce a yearbook. Most photographs used in the "Echoes" have taken the cooperation of at least four parties to produce, the photographer, the yearbook section editor, the person or persons being photographed, and the weatherman. To get all four parties cooperating at the same time in the same spot is a huge task. When this situation is multiplied by the number of photographs in the book, one can easily see the big job facing the yearbook staff.

Without the cooperation of each student, our production of the "Echoes" would have been impossible. So we thank you, each student, faculty and staff member, for your patience and help. We would also like to extend a special word of appreciation to the business concerns supporting this yearbook through the advertising section.

Phyllis,

What can I say to express myself? The things we've done some can't be talked about but we've done some unique. Well things in this, our one year, we've made and can try to break all the records we've made now. Of course I realize no one else to me how much your friendship has meant to me. I would like to break all my studies as far as keeping me out of bed each year. I hope I can give me when I led each year. I hope I can give me down the crooked way of keeping me to my studies as far as keeping me nervous. Patient as way of keeping me committed - for much life, for from giving me with perfume, thanks for in all of my other next I hope we can still stand each roommates. We've had a good year, and I hope plans of the boys, and slyly scheming. I hope we've deceived and trickery. I hope we've deceived ourselves that we are normal and not a little odd (would you believe different?). P.S. Thanks for the back-rules!

Your friend ever &
ever love ya,
Judy
